

SCRAPBOOK PROJECT

Chloe Turner

ARTIFACT ONE

- On the next slide, you will see pictures of a powerpoint I did almost two years ago. It is about who I think would win if anime characters Sailor Moon and Goku were in a battle. This powerpoint was an assignment we had to do called "Passion Project". Our assignment was to make a powerpoint about something we enjoyed. I really like anime, so I wanted to make my project about that. Goku vs Sailor Moon has been a debate floating around the internet for a while now and I wanted to add my opinion. I believe this falls under the communication core competency because at the end of the presentation, I asked my class for their opinions on this topic. I think I could've added more to this project but overall, I don't think it's that bad.

Why I think sailor moon would win if she battled Goku

Strengths

Sailor moon

- She has a lot of power and has great determination when it comes to protecting the people she cares for
- She is very fast and can move around easily
- She has crystals that give her more power

Goku

- He is very fast with super human strength
- He has been trained like a god

weaknesses

Sailor moon

- She has a fear of not being strong enough
- She tends to be very timid at the beginning of a fight

Goku

- Let's his guard down near the end of a battle
- Tends to fight carelessly due to his ego
- He would assume sailor moon is easy and give her an advantage by judging her appearance not her strengths

Prediction of what would happen

- Sailor moon would start of shy and scared making goku believe she is an easy target. Mid fight, sailor moon would be dodging a majority of goku's hits because she is faster than him. Historically, if you look at comic books you will see that magic always wins. Goku is not magic but sailor moon is, giving her another advantage. After a while, I think goku would realize he can't win and possibly give up or he would get absolutely bodied by sailor moon once he let his guard down or when he became tired.

ARTIFACT TWO

- Last quarter, I was in science and one assignment was that we had to make simple posters of safety rules. I made three but I could only find two of them. The two posters that you will see on the next slide are rhymes that I had to make up. In my opinion, these posters fall under the creative thinking core competency. The reason I think it is under this category, is because I had to create them and make them rhyme as well as finding pictures that suited the rhyme and safety message. If I ever did this project again, I think I would make them brighter and maybe add some more colour.

make sure to clean up if there's broken glass or you might sit on it and get shards in your ass

Always wear closed toed shoes

Or else a toe is what you might lose

ARTIFACT THREE

- This is a painting I did on my closet door. I have a passion for anything that has to do with art and editing my room. The painting is a picture of Haku, a character from the movie 'Spirited Away'. This painting took a long time, but I think I'm going to redo it soon. I think this also falls under the creative thinking core competency because I had to paint and find a layout of what I wanted to do. In the future I plan to paint more walls but try to stick to flat surfaces because the closed being textured made it a bit difficult.

