VS

artistic society

population control

Each family raises two children, one male and one female. Each child is born genetically preferred so that each child has a healthy body and an intelligent mind. Because genetic excellence technology extends each person's life to 200 years, couples are required to be married for at least 10 years before they can have children.

Similarities to The Giver's society include one girl and one boy per family, and couples need to be married for a period of time before they can adopt. The difference is that the children of my society couples have their own genes while The Giver does not.

The similarity with Gattaca is the genetic modification of newborns to improve society, while the difference is that my society genetically modifies every child.

Education

Every child receives the same education, from the age of 6 to 15. During this time they will learn how to use high technology, and classes are taught through online classes and there are no exams. There is no pressure on the children since they are genetically capable.

Similarities to The Giver's society include children getting the same education. The difference is that there is no volunteer work and the children do not have to go to school.

The similarities with Gattaca's society are that the children get the same education. The difference is that our society students do not have to worry about exams.

job opportunities

In our society people don't need to work since all the work is done by robots. They work with technology. They work less, so they have more free time to choose what they prefer to do.

The Giver's society is assigned jobs by the elders through hobbies.

Gattaca is a way to see if people have been genetically modified and those modified people can obtain better jobs.

Rules promoting Freedom or Obedience

In our society, robotic police maintain absolute fairness in community public areas. They are under the ground until someone does some harmful things. People have the freedom to do whatever they want. If they don't break the laws, they could try anything. Also, the school will teach them the law, so they have the independence to choose what they want to do.

They control the minds of residents by pill and limiting access to knowledge so that residents follow the rules. Residents will be RELEASED if they break the rules three times. the similarity is they will get punishment after breaks the rules.

There are many qualities genetic elites to be the police officers, and there are laws to maintain justice. they don't have the freedom to choose the jobs. the similarity is there is police to make sure the justice.

discrimination

In our society, people always respect other people's choices. Also, the culture lets people think that they are the same, and they suppose to respect each other's choices.

In Jonas society, there is no discrimination because they take drugs. the similarity is they don't discriminate the others.

In Gattaca, they discriminate the others that don't have perfect genes.
