Section D: Hit the Post!

- This comment is very heartfelt to me because I have recently been working a lot on myself. I am trying not to settle for less than I think I can accomplish, in my relationships, school, and fitness. I am attempting to become the best version of myself, and keep people around me help me to push me further on my journey.

2. Don't settle

Some people stay in jobs they don't like just because of the salary. Others settle in relationships that no longer cause their hearts to race. Some of us stay with friends who deplete us because we long for any kind of company. Whatever you settle, it's not worth the cost. You deserve peace of mind and to be outrageously happy.

If you are constantly saying to yourself, "There has to be something better than this", you are probably settling. Don't settle for less. Seek out to find your best.
